

CRITICAL CARE NURSING REVIEW

Course B – Moderate Pace

Online Course: September 1, 2021 to January 21, 2022

Course Instructor: Brenda Lynn Morgan MSc RN CNCC(C)

3 courses (Fast, Moderate and Relaxed timelines) are currently underway. Material for Courses B and C both opened up on September 1 2021, with Module 1 ZOOM classes being offered September 24 and 23 respectively. Due to the self-directed pace of the online material, registrations will be accepted for Course B and C until September 23, 2021.

Course A is timed to the next writing of the Canadian Nurses Association Certification Examination in early November 2021. This course is already underway, but if you would still like to register for the Fast Paced course and access Module 1 and 2 in Course B or C, please contact Brenda Morgan at critcareconcepts@rogers.com This option will end September 23, 2021.

ABOUT THE COURSE

This course provides an overview of the core critical care theory and competencies that are the basis for the certification examination in adult critical care nursing in Canada (CNCC-C). This course is of benefit to nurses working in critical care who are seeking a core review, or preparing to become certified (or recertified) in critical care nursing. This course is a review; content is geared to individuals with prior or current critical care experience. The course content builds upon the in-classroom review that has been offered by the instructor for many years; the curriculum has been expanded and adapted to facilitate remote learning.

HOW THE COURSE IS PROVIDED

This course is available only to registered participants. Content is organized into modules and presented through password protected prerecorded videos and handout material. At the conclusion of each module, a complimentary live follow-up class will be provided by ZOOM (on scheduled dates). The purpose of the follow-up class is to reinforce module content and apply learnings to clinical scenarios. Participation in the live class is strongly recommended to get the greatest benefit from the course (but not mandatory).
